TMSP & EVOLVING DOORS

Rekhya Lamb of Ballou STAY discusses community leadership with The Evolving Door Program.

MR. EPIE ON THE TMCT BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

Congratulations to Mr. Epie for becoming a member of the TMCT Board of Directors. Mr. Epie joins Ebony McMorris Bego and Marsha L. Brown as new members. We wish them the best in their effort to improve the effort of the TMCT.

HAPPY THANKSGIVING

TMSP would like to wish all of our friends and community members a safe and enjoyable Thanksgiving. This is a day for being grateful for the blessings we have received all year and TMSP would like to wish all peoples of all nationalities, ethnicities and languages a day of peace and gratitude.

POWERFUL MESSAGE

"One of the lessons that I grew up with was to always stay true to yourself and never let what somebody else says distract you from your goals. And so when I hear about negative and false attacks, I really don't invest any energy in them, because I know who I am."

— Michelle Obama

The Evolving Door Program

@theevolvingdoorprogram. A community grassroots organization located here in Southeast DC, led by Mr. Mike Palmer. TMSP beacon Rekhya Lamb sat down with The Evolving Door Program in Ballou STAY to discuss the impact of community partners in schools. Rekhya provided insight on how students can benefit from the continued support of individuals who desire to help students achieve greatness. EDP provides job readiness training, financial literacy and life skills coaching to residents ages 18-24. They can be contacted via their IG page.

Congratulations to Mr. Eppie for being voted onto the TMCT Board of Directors. Mr. Eppie has been a public servant for over 10 years. Mr. Eppie was invited to join the TMCT family by the late Dr. Rick Lee and was a pioneer of the TMSP community outreach arm of TMCT. We are proud of Mr. Eppie for his outstanding service and work with young leaders of the city.

TMSP would also like to celebrate the appointment of Ebony McMorris Bego and Marsha L. Brown as new board members as well. We all look forward to the work these new dynamic leaders bring to the table.
